

Introduction to NEKLS

NEKLS is one of seven regional systems in the State of Kansas and includes a mix of urban, suburban and rural areas in a 14-county region that includes over 1.32 million or 45% of the total Kansas population. A large majority of the population is within the Kansas City metro – Lawrence – Topeka corridor. Population figures dropped slightly for many of the rural communities in the region while some are experiencing modest growth. Fourteen member libraries serve populations less than 1,000.

Member Libraries: NEKLS has a diverse membership of 117 libraries, including:

- 48 Public libraries
- 51 School districts and private schools
- 11 academic libraries
- 7 special libraries

Governance: A System Board of 146 members (117 member libraries, 11 County Commission Appointees, 18 Executive Board Members) governs NEKLS and meets annually in August or September to approve the System budget. An 18-member Executive Board governs on a day-to-day basis and meets monthly.

Building & Infrastructure: NEKLS owns its headquarters building, which includes a training room with capacity for 40 and hybrid capabilities utilizing a dedicated Zoom room; a collaboration room for small meetings and private Zoom meetings; a courier sorting and supply area; a conference room suitable for twelve attendees, and office space for eleven staff. Two system vehicles support staff travel within the region.

NEKLS Role

As a regional library system, NEKLS is called by state statute K.S.A. 75-2547 et seq. to contribute to the provision of library services to all residents of the region.

To understand the purpose of a regional system like NEKLS, one first needs to understand that libraries are essential to the communities they serve. Libraries are a community necessity – not a luxury – and should be funded as such.

Libraries

- ✓ Encourage patrons of all ages to achieve literacy: reading skills, information and digital literacy, financial literacy, health literacy, etc. This is accomplished through library-sponsored programs, online learning resources and broad library collections.
- ✓ Offer educational resources and learning opportunities to everyone. Here, patrons might explore a new hobby, research a DIY project, learn bicycle repair, or plan a vacation. They might develop life skills by taking classes on such things as cooking, shopping on a budget, basic sewing methods, time management, organizational skills and strategies, basic first aid, and managing self-care. This is accomplished through library-sponsored programs, online learning resources and broad library collections.
- ✓ Provide access to entertainment and build community. Here, patrons can find a good book or check out a new movie, join a book club, participate in trivia nights, attend a movie night or join a special-interest group on topics such as gardening, cycling, birding, or photography.
- ✓ Provide programs that enrich student lives: summer reading, story times, after-school STEAM (science, technology, engineering, art and math) programs, career exploration, etc.
- ✓ Support business growth and job readiness. Libraries promote entrepreneurship, support small businesses, and assist individuals with career development. Here, patrons can learn new job skills, prepare a resume, apply for jobs, hold a meeting with a client, create a business plan, etc. Also, businesses recognize the value of having a public library in the community where their employees live and work.
- ✓ Offer broadband access. In some communities, the library may be the only free source of access to the internet.
- ✓ Curate special collections that encourage exploration and innovation. Some libraries have maker spaces where patrons engage in hands-on experiences to learn new skills and create. Some libraries circulate “things” such as tools, seeds, binoculars, fishing poles, etc.
- ✓ Preserve local history. Some libraries participate in projects to digitize photographs and other artifacts, record oral histories, and promote genealogical research.

Regional library systems make local libraries stronger for all residents of the region. In fact, NEKLS endeavors to inspire and empower member libraries to engage, educate and add value to their communities.

We accomplish this mission in several ways . . .

- ✓ Consulting services that help library directors and library boards to work through challenges and arrive at good solutions. The goal is to foster strong governance of the library – e.g. sound policies, responsible budget practices, proper personnel practices, and legal compliance.
- ✓ Diverse continuing education and training opportunities that strengthen the knowledge and skills of library staff and library boards to better serve the community. For various reasons, many libraries cannot offer training opportunities to staff. NEKLS fills this gap through training and education opportunities provided by NEKLS staff or an outside expert. NEKLS partners with other Kansas regional systems on some training opportunities. In addition, NEKLS provides deeper training to new library directors and orientation sessions for new board members.
- ✓ Ongoing development and support for an online learning management system that supports continuing education and training for library staff and boards.
- ✓ Technical assistance to library staff and financial support that provides more cost-effective digital content to patrons – ebooks, audiobooks, videos, periodicals, etc.
- ✓ Coordinating the Next shared catalog, which allows participating libraries to share collections.
- ✓ Coordinating statewide courier service, ensuring patrons receive materials from other libraries in a timely manner. The sharing of materials affords patrons access to a broader selection of information and saves libraries from having to purchase every item that patrons may seek.
- ✓ Impactful grants and subsidies (accounting for 44% of 2025 budgeted expenses). NEKLS projects to provide over $1.6 million spread throughout our 14 county region in the form of continuing education grants; courier subsidies; digital content; library development grants to public libraries; competitive grants, including school library grants and literacy grants; and other subsidies.
- ✓ Other programs and services, including E-Rate assistance and website hosting.
